The writer of this pasquinade reproaches the Prussian Ministry in unmeasured terms for having sanctioned Geiger s election. He is convinced that if the just (?) complaints of the orthodox Jews had reached the throne of the king, and if the dissenting opinions of Geiger had been known to the highest authorities, it would have been needless for him to write on the subject. The fact of the matter is that the enemies of Geiger had left no stone unturned in order to oust him. At first they appealed to the government of the province of Upper Silesia, then to the minister of the interior, then to the king, then they attempted to effect Geiger s removal from office. the point of view of Modern Judaism (Berlin, Issleib, 1880). But some instances may find a place here: Who knows, who ascends the heaven,...
